《MRCs准备与复习》

内容概要

This book is designed to help candidates in their final preparation for the new intercollegiate MRCs examination. It seeks to help the candidate present his knowledge and clinical expertise in a clear, concise and well formulated manner. The aim is to provide insight as to the nature of the examination by setting out the form for each part of the examination and then to help the candidate in preparing themselves for each section so that they may perform to the very best of their ability.
