章节摘录

版权页：插图：Lin Chong is framed on charges of attempting to assassinate Marshal Gao Qiu and sentenced to face-tattooing and exile to Cangzhou. Gao Qiu bribes the guards escorting Lin Chong there to kill him along the way. Luckily, Lu Zhishen follows Lin Chong secretly and saves him from death at Wild Boar Woods. Lu Zhishen then sees Lin Chong safely to Cangzhou while the guards are afraid of doing anything funny under the watchful eye of Lu Zhishen. While in Cangzhou, Lin Chong meets Chai Jin and befriends him. Chai provides him with some silver to bribe the jailers in the Cangzhou prison and Lin Chong has an easy life in prison. However, Gao Qiu is dissatisfied with Lin Chong's fate and he sends Lu Qian to Cangzhou to kill Lin Chong. Burning of The Fodder Storage Field Lu Qian bribes the jailers with a larger sum of money and the jailers assign Lin to be in charge of a fodder storage field, apparently with good intentions of letting him lead an easier life. Later, Lu Qian and the jailers set fire to the field in an attempt to kill Lin Chong in the fire. However, Lin escapes death as his hut has collapsed under the heavy snow and he seeks shelter in a nearby temple of the Mountain Deity. Lin Chong returns to the field when he sees it on fire and runs into Lu Qian and the jailers. Lin kills them for revenge and abandons the field, which has become a fiery inferno. He knows that he will be punished for neglecting his duties by allowing the grain and fodder to be destroyed, thus he flees to Chai Jin's residence for refuge.
