《So You Think You Know》

内容概要

We don't live in the country we thought we lived in anymore; it has changed because we have changed. When it comes to immigration, the population explosion, the collapse of the family, the north-south divide, or the death of the countryside, common wisdom tells us that we are in trouble; however, this is far from the truth. In his brilliant anatomy of contemporary Britain, leading geographer Daniel Dorling dissects the nation and reveals unexpected truths about the way we live today, contrary to what you might read in the news. Exploring the key issues that make the headlines Dorling will change the way you think about the country and explain just why you should feel positive about the future.

Why there are more young women in London than men

Why the North/South Divide is moving southwards

Why we need more immigrants rather than less

Why the population time bomb is a myth

Why there are more divorced people in Blackpool than anywhere else

Why young black people don't vote
