《长城》

内容概要

《长城(英文)》内容简介：In the east of the world, on the length and breadth of China's soil, many earth, stone statures and gigantic dragons rise. Among them is the gigantic dragon of the Great Wall, lengthening out to ten thousand Li. It leaves the Gobi, leaps the desert, strides the grassland and turns over the mountains. From the winding ups and downs of Yanshan it moves swiftly and descends. It faces Bohai, holds up its head and speeds along. Then it extends its head into the big sea, where it causes billows to surge and stirs waves every day, respires clouds and demonstrates its never-exhausting vigor and enchantment. The Chinese people with all their heart and all their force took the totems within their heart to create it in their national territory. This is the Chinese Great Wall and the ten thousand Li Great Wall. The children and grand-children of China, by toil and wisdom, with their lives and blood.

章节摘录

版权页：插图：221 BC Qin Shihuangdi, by later generations called "the eternal emperor" succeeded in his politics. In a time span of not even ten years by relying upon his actual strength through expansions and accumulations of his ancestors and by displaying all sorts of strategies he successively destroyed the six feudal states of Han, Wei, Chu, Zhao, Yan and Qi. He established the first unified, multiethnic, feudal state with a system of a centralized government in the history of China and thus realized the first national assimilation. With this step and symbol of unification, Qin Shihuangdi issued a series of decrees, like abolishing the system of fiefdom.
