前言

Based on the needs of social production and activity , modern architecture is not merely a place that could give us warmth and shelter , To break away from the old , new architecture attaches great importance to function and structure . Clear , simple and straight-forward forms are applied instead of excessive decoration , while the texture , color and characteristic of the materials are respected to fulfill different needs . Modern architecture aims to showcase the beauty of form and construction , but also the great minds of the architects . But all in all , the existence value of modern architecture is to please us , to charm us , to wow us-the ones who are living in the arts of architecture . For that , we are always striving . In succession to the previous two versions , M ' Modern Architecture releases its third volume , continues to present the most representative works of the current years , Hereby , we would like to thank all the architects , designers for their kind permission to publish their works . M。 Modern Architecture is made possible also by the generosity of photographers , writers and press people associated with all the practices . Our thanks go to them!
