章节摘录

Surgeon General Joice Elders opened a news conference in Washington , saying that smoking by high seniors rose last year for the first time after annual surveys began in 1976 . More than 30 percent of the seniors and almost half of 8th graders do not believe that there is a great risk for smoking . Most of the adults in the United States who smoke began the habit before age 18 . Estimated 3 million adolescents now smoke cigarettes and a million use chewing tobacco or other smokeless tobacco products . Health consequences quickly occur , including severe respiratory ailments and retarded lung function . If they persist , these young smokers will risk joining the ranks of the 420 , 000 Americans who die each year from cancer or other diseases linked to smoking . Furthermore , tobacco appears to be a gateway drug leading to subsequent use of alcohol , marijuana and other drugs . The nation ' s top public health official says that young-sters most likely to use tobacco are those with low academic achievement , little ability to resist and a lower self-image . The tobacco industry ' s marketing experts promote their product to such people by giving it an appealing image , the five-S image . By adopting cigarette smoking , young people are led to believe that they ' re slim , they ' re sexy , they ' re sociable , they ' re sophisticated and they ' re successful .
