章节摘录

Chapter 6 Mr. Hindley came home to the funeral; and -a thing that amazed us , and set the neighbours gossiping right and left-he brought a wife with him What she was , and where she was born , he never in-formed us : probably , she had neither money nor name to recommend her , or he would scarcely have kept the union from his father. She was not one that would have disturbed the house much on her own account. Every object she saw , the mo-ment she crossed the threshold , appeared to delight her;and every arcumstance that took place about her.except the preparing for the burial , and the presence of the mourners. I thought she was half silly , from her behaviour while that went on : she ran into her chamber , and made me come with her , though I should have been dressing the children; and there she sat shivering and clasping her hands , and asking repeatedly -Are they gone yet?' Then she began describing with hysterical emotion the effect it produced on her to see black; and started , and trembled , and , at last , fell a-weeping -and when I asked what was the matter , answered , she didn't know; but she felt so afraid of dying! I imagined her as litde likely to die as myself. She was rather thin , but young , and fresh complexioned , and her eyes sparkled as bright as diamonds. I did remark , to be sure , that mounting the stairs made her breathe very quick; that the least sudden noise set her all in a quiver , and that she coughed troublesomely sometimes : but I knew nothing of what these symptoms portended , and had no impulse to sympathize with her. We don't in gen-eral take to foreigners , here , Mr. Lockwood , unless they take to us first Young Earnshaw was altered considerably in the three years of his absence. He had grown sparer , and lost hiscolour , and spoke and dressed quite differently; and , on the very day of his return , he told Joseph and me we must thenceforth quarter ourselves in the back-kitchen , and leave the house for him Indeed , he would have car-peted and papered a small spare room for a parlour; but his wife expressed such pleasure at the white floor andhuge glowing fire-place , at the pewter dishes and delf- case , and dog-kennel , and the wide space there was to move about in where they usually sat , that he thought it unnecessary to her comfort , and so dropped the inten-tion.
