《世界大变革与中国的机遇和挑战》

前言

On November 21-22, 2009, China Institute of International Studies and China Foundation of International Studies CO. organized an annual seminar on the international situation entitled "Great Changes in the World and Opportunities and Challenges for China". More than 150 well-known experts and scholars participated in the seminar and delivered colorful and insightful statements and comments. H. E. Mr. Wang Guangya, Party Secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, attended and delivered a masterly and important report. Mr. Le Yucheng Director-general of the Policy Planning Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs was also present and gave a profound speech on the relevant subject. The reason for choosing the above-mentioned theme is very simple. The international situation is changing every year, but 2009 is indeed an eventful year with the most complicated and profound changes, and the most far-reaching significance since the end of the Cold War. Obviously, the relations between China and the world are becoming closer, and their interests are becoming more interrelated. The world is affecting China, while China is also affecting the world. As a rapidly rising developing country, China's position and role in the world have become a hot topic of the international community. Foreign scholars have published many works and essays in this respect, and, in China, there are various arguments and opinions as well. The key issue of common concern is: How to determine its position, how to take both domestic and international situations into consideration, how to seize Great Transformation of the World & China's Opportunities and Challenges opportunities and counter challenges, and how to make contributions while balancing the interests of China and that of the world, against the backdrop of the current world undergoing the profound structure adjustment and transformation.

Throughout the seminar, the participating experts and scholars expounded their views from different angles, and put forward a lot of valuable suggestions. The common features of these speeches are: Seeking truth from facts, irrefutable arguments, explicit viewpoints and great significance to the comprehensive and accurate understanding of today's world and China. In order to share their insights, China Institute of International Studies, as a convention, has the pleasure to compile the major speeches into a book in Chinese and publishes some selected papers in English for the readers at home and abroad. I hereby express my sincere thanks to Dr. Liu Youfa Vice President of the CIIS, Mr. Dong Manyuan, Miss Su Xiaohui, Dr. Chen Xulong, Dr. Wang Youming and Mr. Shen Zhongming from the World Affairs Press and others who have made contributions to the conceiving, paper soliciting, editing, proofreading and publishing the book.

章节摘录

The global economic recession in 2009 , which was triggered by the financial crisis in the US , has hitherto produced a profound impact on the international situation and accelerated the shifting of the balance of power . The following development is most eye-catching : The decline of the overall national strength of the US , the only superpower , has clearly affected its dominance in the world affairs ; the rise of the emerging countries represented by the BRIC states has brought changes to the relative strengths of the North and South ; and some other changes are also brewing in the global balance of power and international order . The shift in the balance of power , of course , is a gradual process , within which a quantitative change turns into a qualitative one . The US will remain as the superpower with the greatest overall national strength during the above process . While the US will continue to play a leading role on many international issues , it will also have to address more difficulties and challenges , and face greater constraints . Prompted by the above-mentioned factors , the Obama administration has significantly adjusted its foreign policy pursued by the previous Republican government . In general , Obama's liberalism-driven policy is bound to differ from that of the Bush administration which was driven by neo-conservatism
